

Asset Ref No.	The Great Northern Railway: Branch Line Portadown – Londonderry
Heritage Type	Built
	Post-medieval/modern (C19)
Location	OS 6-inch map sheet
	Townland	Various
	Parish
	LCA	Derry Slopes
	ITM Coordinates	Various
	NG Coordinates	Various
Protection Status	Industrial Heritage Record
Condition	Good
Ownership (if known)
Site Description	Several remains of the Great Northern Railway Branch Line Portadown – Londonderry (Built late 1800s) are located within the Derry Slopes LCA within the City, including a large quantity of industrial heritage sites including Londonderry Terminus and other GNR features within the Urban District area.
Landscape Context (setting)	The railway line is a prominent feature within the LCA
Site Appraisal	This consists of IHR sites.
Sensitivity
Associations	 Map of the GNR network from the 1913 annual report Mulligan, F. (1983) 'One Hundred & Fifty Years, Irish Railways'. Appleby Press.

Recommendations	The railway line stands as testimony to the C19th industrial heritage of the area. Although there are little remains in the Derry Slopes LCA, the Foyle Valley LCA may have potential for a heritage trail tracing same along its route has good tourist potential and sympathetic re-use of any structures is to be encouraged.
Mapping	 Extract from NIEA MapViewer of the site
References	http://maps.ehsni.gov.uk/MapViewer/Default.aspx
Plates	n/a
Additional Notes	n/a